

<h3>Situation</h3> When did your story take place? What was the situation? Who was involved?	<h3>Complication/Change</h3> How did things change? Then what happened? Who took action?	<h3>Resolution</h3> What was the result? How did it end?
<h3>Detail</h3> to create pictures in the listeners mind	<h3>Detail</h3> to create pictures in the listeners mind	<h3>Detail</h3> to create pictures in the listeners mind
<h3>Emotional reflection:</h3> How did you feel? How did others feel? Why?	<h3>Emotional reflection:</h3> How did you feel then? How did others feel then? Why?	<h3>Emotional reflection:</h3> How did you feel then? How did others feel then? Why?

Storyteller	Listener
Part 1: rough draft of the story (time: _____ minutes)
Tell your story casually, like a first draft.	Support the teller with your attention. If they are stuck, you can ask questions from the boxes above. If they don't mention their emotions, you can ask how they felt.
Part 2: feedback to refine the draft (time: _____ minutes)
Ask the listener these questions, one at a time. Don't respond to the feedback – just think about how you might incorporate it next time you tell the story. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Where did you think 'I want to hear more?' • What details were memorable? • Where were you confused? What questions did you have? 	Respond to the feedback questions by mentioning specific parts of their story. Don't worry about presentation style (like if they said 'um'); just answer the questions.